Project Detail:

Project Title: (56 characters max)	Use of surveys to broaden consumer representation in clinical practice guidelines
Hypothesis:	NA
Description: (Include design, methodology, data collection, techniques, data analysis to be employed, evaluation and interpretation methodology for research component)	A trend has been established in selected Academies of the American Physical Therapy Association to use surveys of potential consumers of clinical practice guidelines (CPGs) to inform the questions and topics addressed. This project is a survey of literature and CPG authors to describe the uses and effectiveness of that approach for meeting the Institute of Medicine's criteria for consumer involvement on guidelines. Methods will include surveying the literature to identify CPGs that used surveys, identifying aims and results. Simple summaries will be developed to determine trends across CPGs.
Specific Student Responsibilities:	Literature searching, assisting with summary table development, assisting with slide deck development that describes the results.

Start / end date of project:	June 1- Aug 15, 2023, In person vs virtual hours negotiable
